Hudson river discovered, 1609 Battle of Brandywine, 1777.

Mayflower defeated Galatea, 1886. A WORD FOR DEMOCRATS ONLY. In 1888 when Grover Cleveland was running for the presidency, he had among his chief advisers, one William

L. Scott, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Scott was a member of congress and a free trader. He gained the democratic national convention in denouncing the republican system of protection. He like wise denounced the republican party for sustaining a tariff which created discontentment among workingmen, which reduced wages and organized strikes. His lovve for workingmen in 1888 was marvelously great when expressed in his speeches, and it did seem that his philanthropy was broad enough to embrace all the workingmen of the Union. This same Scott is the man who joined in the wish of Voorhees in his Indiana speech that all the Andrew Carnegies might be hanged—the manufacturers who divide profits with their workingmen and who rate wages according to the profits realized on manufactured iron. This same Scott is he who owns gome coal mines in Illinois, and whose miners have been on a strike. To show what sort of a master this man Scott is, the following cutline of a memorial by the miners to Governor Fifer, will clearly

It sets forth that W. L. Scott became the owner of all the coal in this locality; opened the mines and invited men to come here to find work; built a town and sold the houses to some, but took mortgages upon them; rented the remainder to the miners, and when the people were completely in his power shut down the mines and offered them a reduction which meant starvation wages. He did not offer to reduce house rent nor the price of food and clothing in the company's store. He now refuses to the People's National Bank of Mobile Alabama: one to their rights. The men have been without work since May 1; all business is paralyzed, and there is no other source of living for the people but the charity which has been bestowed upon them. They are in sore need, and with the 'approach of winter the need of food will have added to it the need of fuel and clothes. The company has served no-tices of ejectment upon the people occupying its houses.

This is the man who endorsed the sentiment of his democratic friend; D. W. Voorhees, that the Carnegies should be hanged for sucking the life blood of the people! He was one of the loudest of the democratic howlers last year against protection, and no man more than he insisted with greater apparent earnestness that nothing but free trade and plenty of foreign goods would improve the condition of American workingmen! Mr. Scott is a Shylock in business. He demands the last pound of flesh. His purpose is with the Illinois miners to make them come to bis terms or starve the people.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT AN. NIVERSARY.

One hundred years ago to day the treasury department of the United States government was organized. Alexander Hamilton, the first secretary of the treasury, was appointed by President Washington, Sept. 11, 1789. The act creating the office was passed Sept. 2, 1789, at the First congress of the United States of America. When Hamilton was made the secretary of the treasury the bureau officers created by the same act, were a "controller, a register, an auditor, and a treasurer. The secretary was also allowed an assistant, but the duties of that official were modified greatly, and the first assistant secretary had none of the administrative matters to look after that now fall upon the assistant secretaries. A few years later this office was abolished. A commissioner of revenues took its place. The latter office was discontinued and replaced by turns, and finally became that now known as the internal revenue office. In 1792 congress became more liberal to the secretary of the treasury and he was allowed two

It is fitting and proper at this time to recall public attention to the first secretary of the treasury. When that department was organized, Hamilton was only 32 years old. Washington, in forming his first cabinet, offered the treasuryship to Robert Morris. He refused the position, insisting that there was only one man in all the United States, fitted by studies and ability to create public credit and bring the resources of the country into active effiolency. Washington then tendered the office to Hamilton who accepted the than first prices. The market remained quiet after il o'clock. A somewhat better tone was after il o'clock. He was the yourgest man ever contained a more brilliant mind or a 927% more eminent statesman. Hamilton was one of the greatest orators of the country when he was only 18 years old, and it was at that youthful age that he debated with the Rev. Samuel Seabury, a Scotch divine and an orator of international reputation. Not before the debates of Lincoln and Douglas had the country heard a greater oratorical contest than between Hamilton at 18, and the mature Dr. Seabury, on the formation of a constitution.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Congressman S S. Cox died at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evenquiet, and the dying man breathed his last the last two days and nights, held his hand. while his old friend Douglass Taylor held the other. He had been conscious all day until about hour before the end. Dr. Lockwood was in attendance at the time. Nicholas Kearney, William were in the room. All knelt about the bed. Mr. Cox's last conversation was Twelve deaf, dumb and blind men are wanted for the Oronin jury.—Wisconsin.

That is the kind of a jury that will try at the coming session.

Two hours before he died his colored servant, who had just come on from Washington, went to the bed and Mrs. Cox asked her husband if he recognized him. He looked at him and patted him on the shoulder. The colored man's eyes filled with tears, while all were deeply affected. In the afternoon, while Dr. Lockwood was talking to him, Mr. Cox made some witty remarks which completely upset the doctor's dignity. Later in the afternoon telegrams were sent to Mr. Cox's three sisters, two of whom live in Zanesville, Ohio, and the other in St. Louis. Mr Cox's nephew, who is the superintendent of the Smithsonian institution, was also telegraphed for. Dr. Lockwood said that grams were sent to Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives J. P. Leedom and to Speaker Carlisle.

Mr. Cox was taken ill four weeks ago while on a tour of the four newly acquired States. He returned home and improved for a few days, but took to his bed two weeks ago and did not leave it. He retained his mental faculties to the last, and made a determined battle against death. Mr. Cox was the son of Ezekiel Taylor Cox and was born in Zanesville, Ohio, Sept. 30, 1824. He attended the common school and afterward spent some time in the Ohio university. He then entered

In 1868 Mr. Cox first appeared as a candidate for Congress in New York city and 802 Ninth Ave., New York City; one to Starr, his Republican opponent. The majority was greatly augmented two years after, when Horace Greeley ran against him. In 1872, when he ran for Congressman-at-large against Lyman Tremaine, he was defeated. He was a few months after chosen to fill the seat made vacant by the death of James Brooks. He was re-elected to the XLIVth Congress, was appointed speaker pro tempore June 7, 1876, and was elected speaker pro tempore June 19, 1876, serving until June 24. He was elected to the XLVth, XLVIth, XLVIth, and XLIXth Congress, and resigned to become minster to Turkey. This position he resigned and took his seat in the XLIXth Congress, filling the vacancy caused the resignation Joseph Pulitzer. He was re-elected to the Lth Congress and again to the List.

LANTIC COAST. Coney Island Hotels and Pavilions Suffer Greatly--Ships Driven Ashore---

The Causalty Record.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. - The great storm which has been raging along the coast continues, and word comes from Coney island that the tide this morning was higher than last night. The guests of the Manhattan Beach and Oriental hotels were imprisoned by water, and the West End hotel was submerged. The beach at Man. hattan has been washed away. The mammouth bathing pavilion belonging to Manhattan Beach is going down before the thundering waves. The old marine railway structure was carried away early to day and taken with an awful crash over the new marine railway fully 300 feet inland, carrying the latter away bodily and overturning and smasning cars like kindling-wood. The old Brighton Beach bathing pavilion followed it with a deafening crash and then drifted with lightning rapidity and herculeau force against the new bath house, tearing part of that away. The Brighton Beach hotel is surrounded by over two feet of water. Fully 100 feet of the lawn in front of the hotel has been eaten away since last night and from indications early to-day it will all be gone before night The Brighton Beach railroad is submerged. No trains are running. The angry waves dashed against Seidl's music stand, each ture have been abandoned. Atlantic City has been cut off from the mainland and much damage has been done there. In this city piers usually twelve feet | ruins. above high-wat r mark have their decks washed, and East river front buildings from Fiftieth to Fourteenth street are flooded. The lower end of Blackwell's island is submerged, and telegraph communication between here and Sandy Hook has been destroyed, and news of incoming vessels is anxiously awaited. None has arrived and no vessels have dared to venture out. The ocean racers, City of New York and Teutonic, were expected to-day. The bay and rivers are very turbulent, and the ferryboats and other craft are tossed about like chips. The storm has caused great damage along the coast of Long island. At Rockaway Beach the tide reached an unparalleled height. Bathing houses were washed away and the waves broke in on the verandas of the hotels. The short stretch of railroad running between Rockaway Beach, Arverne, and Far Rockaway was submerged, a portion of it was undermined, and the trains had to be discontinued. A bridge between Arverne and Rockaway Beach was carried away. All the small islands in Jamaica bay were covered with water. Scarcely anything could be seen of Hog island to-day at high tide. All the buildings on the island had been washed away. Fire island and Oak island were cut off from all communication with the mainland by beat or telegraph. From the Babylon shore great waves could be seen breaking over both

During the afternoon it was rumored that four cottages on Oak island occupied by families from Babylon had been carried away. An effort was made to send a boat from Babylon to the assitance of the occupants of the cottages, but the boat was beaten back by the wind and tide. At a late hour no definite news had been received concerning their fate.

Sag Harbor was flooded. The water covered the Long Island railroad tracks and yard. All the towns along the shore report more or less damage. Small craft inchored in the harbors and bays were driven ashore and in some instances completely destroyed. Telegraph and telewires are down all over the island. At Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 11. — A severe windstorm, accompanied by rain, has prevailed in this city and vicinity all day. Fire alarm, police telegraph, and telephone wires are prostrated all over the city and the telegraph lines throughout the State are reported to be in very bad shape. The damaging storm which has prevailed along the Atlantic coast since Sunday still continues, and reports received here indicate that the damage to railroad lines entering Atlantic City, Cape May, Sea Isle City, Ocean City and other coast resorts is very great. Grave fears are entertained for the property at Atlantic City, as well as for the lives of the residents, for there would be no way of escape should the condition become more threatening. Atlantic City is on low ground and partly on made ground, and grave apprehensions are feit for the safety of the people there.

From Bay Head to Barnegat City the from Bay Head to Barnegat City the damage both by wind and wave has been unprecedented in the history of the coast. Between Seaside park and Berkely the railroad has been washed away so that no trains can be run. The handsome Berkely Arms, at Berkely, has been damaged and part of the roof carried away. Beach part of the roof carried away. Beach Haven, Barnegat, Long Beach City, Harvey Cedars, and other points on Long Beach are inundated and the railroad washed away in many places.

Cause of the Trouble. WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The United States hydrographic office explains the phenomenon of the high waves along the New Jersey and Long Island coasts as the result of a cyclonic storm which has been traveling up the coast from the West Indies and was probably central off Hatteras Sunday morning. The tremendous waves started by such storms, in which the wind often reaches the velocity of 150 miles an hour, outrun the storm, and when the present cyclone was off Charleston its storm wave was felt on the coast of Long island, increasing in strength the storm approached.

WRECKED BY AN ENGINE. An Illinois Central Locomotive Crashes

Into a Chicago & Atlantic Train. CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—A north bound Illinois Central freight train crashed into an east-bound Chicago & Atlantic freight at the Belt Line crossing at Burnside street at 7 o'clock this morning. The engine, inability to control which was apparently the cause of the accident, struck an oil tank car in the Atlantic train and fired it in a trice. The flames shot high in the air and quickly communicated to another oil car in the rear. The fire engines at Grand Crossing and South Chicago were sent for, but before their arrival the flames had devoured the two oil cars and four box cars loaded with merchandise. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars, but no one was injured, as the trains were moving slowly. The Chicago & Atlantic engineer and trainmen say that the engi-neer of the Illinois Central train was re-sponsible for the accident.

Two alarms were sent out, and when the engines responded to the call, thick black soon over-hung the harbor, which made it extremely difficult to locate the fire. Five minutes after the arrival of the engines and despite . the numerous streams poured on the vessel, a bright blaze shot up amid-ships. Gradually the big steamer listed to the port side, until it seemed at every moment she would topple over. The firemen's only course to save her from entire destruction was to swamp her, and this they did. The boat is badly burned amidships. The hull appears to be but slightly damaged. The King Leopold heads the list with 12,000 france. Relief fotes and performances have been given to Brussels, Paris, and Berlin.

A Denial of the Stories That the Institu tion I Financially Embarrassed. BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 11.—The true tees of the Johns Hopkins university indignantly deny the stories recently pub lished in New York about the university being wrecked with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Joseph Merrifield, treasurer of the university, states that the trustees will in a few days make a formal statement in contradiction of the absurd stories affoat. This statement will show that the profitable capital of the university amounts to nearly $1,750,000; that the expenses of the university are within its income, and $100,000 recently subscribed by prominent citizens has tided it over the temporary difficulties caused by the continued suspension of the Baltimore & Ohio divi disemboweled. The victim, like the others, was an outcast. Her body was found at 6 o'clock this morning 200 yards from the spot in Berner street where Elizabeth Strede was butchered in a similar manner.

Later details concerning the discovery show that there was no blood on the body or ground. From this it is evident that the murder was committed in some other place and the body subsequently deposited under the railway arch. The trunk was nude. A rent and bloody chemise was found lying near the corpse. It is be-lieved that the woman had been dead for two days.

Three sailors who were sleeping under an arch near the place where the body was found were taken into custody. The seamen convinced the authorities, however, that they had seen or heard nothing of a suspicious nature and they were charged.

WAS IT AN EARTHQUAKE?

How Skepties Explain the Cracking of the Big Florence Pulp Mills. FLORENCE, Wis., Sept. 11.—People are still in doubt here whether it was really an earthquake which damaged the Van Nortwick-Rogers paper mill Saturday night. The theory that the water of the river obtained entrance inte a great crevice in the rock on which the mill stands, and that the accumulated pressure, backed by the great force of the stream, was so great as to crack the mill walls and split the dam, finds many believers, but in spite of all denials of seismic force, the stubborn fact re-mains that the flowing artesian well has gone completely dry. In the face of this the denials of an actual earthquake shock seem rather weak. Work has begun on repairs of the mill and dam.

lating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it. How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsa-parilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms,

SALOON MEN BEATEN.

An Indianapolis Judge Sustains the Law Advancing Licenses 150 Per Cent. upon the questions involved in increasing the liquor license from $100 to $250, and sustained the constitutionality of the law in all the points. When the city council passed the necessary ordinance the saloonkeepers took out li-censes at the old rate and claimed that they held good for one year. A test case was presented to the court, and the judge has rendered his decision, holding that the law is constitutional and that the payment by saloonkeepers of $100 would not prevent the city from collecting the remainder of the fee. If the decision is sustained by the Supreme court it will increase the revenue of the city $100,000.

Lewis, Ricard, New ing history of events in Hayti during the past year: "On Oct. 7, 1888. I was elected President of the Provisionary Government of Hayti. Everything was done fairly and squarely in my election, but intriguing spirits in the north accused me of frand and cheating, and Gen. Thelemaque came down with an army to declare himself the desired President of the North and South. I, of course, resisted his attempts, and about a week before the general election my troops and those of the North under Thelemaque had an engagement and Thelemaque was killed. I did not conspire for his assassination. He was killed in battle. But my enemies in the North turned Thelemaque's death into a deliberate assassination on my part, and kept up the cry against me. We heard that four deputies from the North were on board the steamer Haytian Republic with evil designs, and of course it was prudent for us to seize them. The seizure of this vessel was entirely a mistake, a mistake for which we over to her owners, together with a large

The war has been a bloody one and of long duration. and of long duration. Hippolyte came down from the North, sweeping destruction before him and spilling blood in a most shameful and diabolical manner, and I can assure you that the loss of so many lives pained me. Finally finding that the increasing numbers of the northern army threatened my southern country with destruction, I decided that the wisest and most proper course for me to pursue was to resign and retire quietly and peacefully from the country. I was not forced to leave Hayti nor was there any surrender. My departure from Port-au-Prince was indeed an ovation to me. I love my people and I have every reason to believe they love me, It is very possible that I shall spend a year in France and then perhaps return to Hayti. My return, however, is undecided and depends entirely on the state of things."

The Small Savings of Their Mother Started a Fortune for Each. George W. Norton, banker, the richest man in Kentucky, died at his home here recently, says a Louisville letter to the New York Sun. He left $2,000,000. He had three brothers, all of whom are likewise very wealthy, one of them being Eck-stein Norton of New York city, president of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, the strongest corporation in the South. An anecdotes will show the remarkable ability of Mr. Norton and his brothers as financiers. Their mother was left a widow almost without means when her children were comparatively young. They then lived at Russellville, a town of 1,500 inhabitants in the southern part of the State. She managed to give each of her sons a business education. She was a woman of unusual ability and great strength and decision of character. When George came this peculiar freak that nature is playing decision of character. "Take this and use it according to the best of your judgment," she said. "As soon as you get a start repay it and let the other boys have a chance.' Young George took the money, and in two years he paid it back with interest, having made enough besides to serve as the foundation of his fortune. Mrs. Nelson then gave the $1,100 to her next oldest son and repeated to him her advice to George. In two years he, too, returned the money, having been equally successful.

The $1,100 was then passed to the third son, who also established himself with it and returned it for the use of the fourth and youngest son. He, too, laid the foundation of a fortune with it and passed Washington, and other points, driving and youngest son. He, too, laid the foundation of a fortune with it and passed it back to his mother, who, after death, divided it equally among them.

DUCTORS AND RAILWAYS.

Prejudice of Physicians Half a Century Ago.

A most curious paper has been found in the archives of the Nurnburg-Further railway, the first railway constructed in Gerkind at either Fort Simpson or Fort Wigley, the supply having given out as early as last January. Upward of twenty Indians have died of starvation, and Missionary Black, who returned to Winnipeg to escape death by starvation, says that this winter the rate of mortality will be so great as to all but wipe out the Indian

many. It is the official opinion of the Bavarian High Medical collegium concerning the probable effect of the general introduction of railway travel upon the health of Bavarian subjects. The rapidity of the new transit, according to the learned doctors, "certainly would cause a brain disease which would develop into delirium furiosum." Of course every one who wished to expose himself to this consequence of the new mode of travel might be allowed to do so undisturbed by the many. It is the official opinion of the be allowed to do so undisturbed by the state. Other persons, however, should be protected from the perils attendant upon rapid locomotion. Spectators by the way-side were liable to brain trouble after merely watching the passing steam cars. Therefore, the railway cars should be concealed from view by close board fences at least five yards high. All things considered, a better way of protecting the sub-jects of the Bavarian crown would be to forbid altogether the construction of the railway. This opinion was given in 1837 in response to a governmental inquiry.

A Forgetful Man. Alf Pearsall of the produce exchange resides at Westfield, N. J., and this, says the New York Telegram, is what he tells of a neighbor: "One of Westfield's citizens hitched his horse on the main street, shopped around, talked with the boys, and went home. He retired early-but not to sleep. What had he forgotten? Surely not to take his boots off—no; they were safely distributed in their usual places. There hung his garments so recently and cheerfully exchanged for the peaceful white costume of the night.

"Midnight was proclaimed by the swee toned bell of the town clock. One o'clock 2 o'clock. Still no sleep. Surely the citizen had forgotten something. He could not sleep. He made up his mind that he would go out to the stable and see how the horse was getting on. Hello! The thing he had forgotten was his horse, and the poor animal was hitched to a post on the main street. Verily, an artificial memory system would be a godsend to some men.

The above bright and benevolent face, is Dr. A. W. Acker, of England, discoverer of the celebrated Acker's English Remedy for Consumption and other popular preparations. Dr. Acker practised in his younger days among the middle classes of London, and was the means of doing great good, but his health failed and he found himself in the grasp of consumption, with a wife and chill depending upon him for support. County Fair a Boomer.

Sports Provided for the Young Folks and How They Improved Them.

TO-DAY'S BIG PROGRAMME

The weather clerk seems to be in league with the Rock County Agricultural Society. This morning's sun came up clear and warm, making a sure thing of a good day for the children's day at the fair Rock county's populace began pouring ir to town and flocking to the fair grounds at an early hour. The young folks were in the predominence, but their fathers and mothers and aunts and uncles came with them. The morning hours of the fair were used by the exhibitors in getting their goods in place, or in putting the finishing touches on the artistic displays to be found in the various departments. It is easy to see that, in all the depart. ments the entries are very full, and the show is a good one all through. All the cepting the merry-go-round and striking machine. Beer, liquors of all kinds, and gambling devises are strictly prohibited.

America Band, of Stoughton, arrived at ling each and every one of them is an the ground. The band is composed of twenty boys, wearing neat and attractive uniforms, and they discoursed some very sweet music. The children who marched in with the band were so numerous that it was useless to try and count them. However they came in troops, with bright I faces, happy smiles and many of them with their dinners in pails.

The first game was a tug of war. long rope had been provided for this contest, and as many boys as could get near enough to the rope took hold to pull. A thirty pound pail of candy was the prize, to go to the winning side, and nothing could have been devised which would have been more eagerly contested for. The word to pull was given. The boys braced, pulled, the rope squeaked and broke in two. The boys piled up in a heap or rather in two heaps, and the howled. The rope was mended and another pull made, which also resulted in a broken rope and heaps of boys. Then a large rope was provided, but after a few moments pulling that rope broke, and for the third time the boys were piled up in two squirming monuments to the brawney muscles of Rock county young-programme, and proved a very attractive feature to the boys. The game was played with a will. The thirty pounds did not take long for the confectionary to become completely annihilated.

At eleven o'clock the farmers' race was called. The race was a peculiar one Teams and lumber wagons were the conveyances used. The teams were unhitched and tied to the fence, the wagons the judges' stand. When the bell tapped tively listened to. each driver hitched up their teams with.
